

System Troubleshooting

Is your system misbehaving? Does it seem to do capricious and random things, or is it just plain slow? Has it simply cut out and refuse to boot? Often there are very simple solutions to what appear to be overwhelming problems. That's why The Computer Mensch is here to help.

I don't care whether you've got one old machine or a dozen new ones. Everyone is entitled to the same service. I will come to your site and either work on the machine there or, if you'd rather, bring it back to my bench for whatever ails it. I will not do any repairs that are either unnecessary or are simply not worth it.

I know how frustrating computer problems are, and I can show you how to avoid them in the future so that the next time you call me, it will be with good news.
